

ABSTRACT

A computerized system for determining lodging options for travelers. The system includes a database of lodging options including information regarding the type of experience the traveler can expect at each option. The system allows searching of the 5 database according to various criteria, including the experience information.

TRA 1889027v1